

POETRY READING

– A Winter Evening with World Poems –

2017年12月8日（金）6.00pm – 8.30pm

- ◇ Mr. T. Bunting
New Zealand Poetry through the ages
- ◇ Prof. M. Sugai
Walter de La Mare's "The Listeners"
- ◇ Dr. K. Kano
Medieval lyrics for an evening in winter
- ◇ Prof. K. Matsuta
Robert Frost's "The road not taken"
- ◇ Prof. M. Sultonov
Omar Khayyam – Persian poet mathematician and astronomer
- ◇ Prof. W. Wu
Reading Modern Chinese Poems

東北公益文科大学 グローバル・ラウンジにて

お申し込み締め切りは12月5日

【参加申し込み】教務学生課
e-mail: kyomu@koeki-u.ac.jp, tel: 0234-41-1116

Poetry Reading (Dec. 8th, 6.00pm~)

✧ Mr. T. Bunting

New Zealand Poetry through the ages

I will talk about how time and place have affected NZ poetry, namely the European settlement, colonisation, war, and modern times.

✧ Prof. M. Sugai

Walter de La Mare's "The Listeners"

Includes a short discussion about the complexities of poetry interpretation: here is a poem that lends itself to multiple interpretations.

✧ Dr. K. Kano

Medieval lyrics for an evening in winter

Some beautiful poetical pieces from medieval time for enjoyment on a winter evening will be presented.

✧ Prof. K. Matsuta

Robert Frost's "The road not taken"

I will introduce a poem called "The road not taken" by American poet Robert Frost, and think about the meaning of the choice in life, which appears in the poem.

✧ Prof. M. Sultonov

Omar Khayyam – Persian poet mathematician and astronomer

I will recite some famous poems and rare quotes of Omar Khayyam in Persian language about soul, wine, heaven, etc. and try to interpret the hidden meanings.

✧ Prof. W. Wu

Reading Modern Chinese Poems

I will recite some of the representative poems in the modern Chinese colloquial new style, following the background of the recently developed tradition.